

Jinfang Liu

Why did you decide to do a PhD project in our Department?

I have always been interested in discovering wider benefit of food science, especially dairy science. I had the chance to do some original research on my Masters and that inspired me to take up the challenge of a PhD. After I read the project proposal, this PhD met my research interests.

What are your future career goals?

I feel my PhD project built up a solid foundation for further study in this field as a foundation for a research career. I want to be a faculty member, but I keep other options open.

What is your advice to potential students?

Before starting a PhD, I think the candidates need to have a clear idea about what they pursue in the PhD and a firm determination to overcome the difficulties they may encounter.
